Court of Auditors: EU migration spending “struggling to demonstrate effectiveness”

The EU's spending on external migration policy in neighbourhood countries has been scrutinized by the European Court of Auditors (ECA), which published a report on 17 March 2016, in which it concluded that this spending is “struggling to demonstrate its effectiveness”. The area covered focuses on countries in the Eastern and Southern Neighbourhood, specifically Algeria, Georgia, Libya, Moldova, Morocco and Ukraine. The auditors examined “23 projects altogether, representing a contract value of EUR 89 million out of a total amount of EUR 742 million”. Their main findings “highlight a number of inadequacies affecting the spending” that need to be corrected if financial management is to be improved, the Court suggests.

High level dialogue between the EU and the International Organization for Migration

EU Commissioner for International Cooperation and Development, Neven Mimica, opened a high-level dialogue with the International Organization for Migration (IOM) to exchange views on the best ways to address current and future challenges in the field of migration. Ahead of the event, Commissioner Mimica said: "Migration and forced displacement worldwide have reached unprecedented levels since the Second World War. Helping partner countries find the right way to manage these unprecedented flows has become one of the most burning issues for all of us. In order to be successful, we need to tackle the root causes of the problem, in cooperation with partner countries and international organizations." William L. Swing, Director General of IOM, as well as several departments of the European Commission and the European External Action Service will take part in this yearly one-day event, in a further sign of how crucial this issue is on the current political agenda in Europe and neighbouring regions.

Implementing the European Agenda on Migration: Commission reports on progress on priority actions

The European Commission reported on the implementation of the priority actions under the European Agenda for Migration and highlighting key areas where immediate action is needed to restore control. The most severe refugee crisis since the Second World War, with over 60 million refugees and internally displaced people across the globe, requires a radical strengthening of the EU migration system and a coordinated European response. While a reduction in flows is highly desirable in view of often overwhelmed national and local authorities, there should be no illusions that the refugee crisis will end before its root causes – instability, war and terror in Europe's immediate neighbourhood, notably continued war and atrocities in Syria – are addressed in a definite manner.
